Mr Alfred Denville's "stock" theatrical company, as has already been remarked in this journal, is even better this winter than last. Mr Rex Gerrard, who had already made a reputation among Douglas people, impersonates the uncannily clever sleuth wonderfully; incidentally, this play gives him the opportunity of appearing in three guises, each so perfect that one suddenly tumbles to it and wonders why one has been so stupid as to not to see through it before. Miss Edith Rusland, in the character of the young girl who lives in dread of being done to death in some mysterious and fearful way by her fendish stepfather, at once violent and subtle, is as winsome and appealing as ever. The villain himself is convincingly personated by Mr Beckett Bould; and Mr Leonard Tremayne, as Dr. Watson, supplies the required foil to the brilliance of his companion Sherlock Holmes, and is yet rather less of a well-intentioned misfit than in the book. Somerset giving a splendid impersonation of Dr. Grimsby Rylott, Mr. Charles Gibbons presents a fine study of Sherlock Holmes, Mr. Fred C. Leister does good work as Dr. Watson, Mr. Banetford is creditable as Billy, Miss Beatrice Mansdenc is very good as Enid Stoner, Mr. John Dotlin is well placed as Rodgers (the butler), Miss Hilda Glynn does well as Mrs. Stainton, Mr. Harold Maligny is very natural as Ali (the Indian valet), and Mr. Louis Palgrave is very humorous as Mr. Armitage. The staging and effects are very creditable.

There was a crowded audience at Allhallows School, Haniton, on Saturday, when a performance was given of Sherlock Holmes' play "The Speckled Band" by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. This is the most ambitious effort ever attempted by the school players, and each character was well represented. The outstanding characters were Mr G.H. Gillett, who most ably portrayed the part of Sherlock Holmes, Mr H.A. Lee as Dr Grimesby Rylott, and D.S.C. Dew as Dr Rylott's step-daughter, Miss Enid Stonor, wee a great success. The play was staged in an effective way by Mr G. Napier. During the performance selections were rendered by the orchestra, the instrumentalists being Mrs Billingsley, Misses Gibbs and F.M. Smith, and Mr J.J. Shepherd. Western Times, Thursday 5 April 1928

On Saturday evening, in conjunction with Vic's Pictures, Graham and Dent presented their excellent burlesque, "The Lucky Catch," in which Mr. Graham took the part of Sherlock Holmes and Miss Dent that of Gwendolene Hurley. The piece was well staged, and delighted the audience. The picture portion of the programme was appreciated by all present. The attendance was large, and the management are assured of another success for the farewell season of Graham and Dent. One of the films shown

Graham and Dent, who are appearing in the Town Hall, Fremantle, under the management of the Victor Picture Co., Ltd., presented their amusing burlesque, "The Lucky Catch," to a full house last evening. Fred. Graham, as Sherlock Holmes and Nellie Dent as Gwendoline Hurley, kept the audience in roars of laughter. The piece is the best the couple have staged during their engagement with Vic's. MOCK TRIAL

The members of the Methodist Young People's Guild spent an amusing evening yesterday, when a Mock Trial was held at which Lucy Lovely, alias Mrs. Trulywed (C. McKay) stood her trial on a charge of bigamously marrying two husbands.

For the defence Mr. Truckee produced a taxi-driver, complete with tin whistle and tyre pump. Mr. Bert. Benzeen (Mr. Gumley), who stated that the first wedding was a faked one. His story was borne out by Private Detective Herlock Sholmes (Mr. Graham) whose cigar was an important piece of evidence in the case.

At the close of the case counsel for the parties made stirring addresses to the jury, who found the prisoner guilty and she was accordingly sentenced to fifteen seconds' hard labour by His Honor Judge Knott.

THEATRE ROYAL, NORTH SHIELDS.
The Millane Stock Company are visiting the Theatre Royal, North Shields, this week. Last night they staged "The Speckled Band," one of Sherlock Holmes' adventures by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. It is a most absorbing story of mystery and the powerful cast portrayed the characters excellently. Val Gurney creditably takes the leading role of Sherlock Holmes. He has a good style and his efforts were appreciated by the audience. Dr Watson is characterised cleverly by Frank Harper, while Edward Louis makes a good Dr Rylott. Miss Ivy Shepherd and Miss Fannie Wilkinson in the roles of the housekeeper and servant respectively pleased everybody. Throughout the five scenes the tenneseness of the story does not slacken and great credit is due to the players in the way the interest was sustained. "The Speckled Band" will be staged until Thursday. On the remaining days the company will present "The Gentleman from Dartmoor," in which Mr Joseph Millane takes the leading role of Roger Deane, an ex-convict.

In "Sherlock Holmes - The Adventure of the Speckled Band," played by the Florence Churchill Repertory Company at the Queen's Theatre this week, Val Gurney is remarkably consistent as Sherlock, and though "my dear Watson" is rather astonishing at first in the well made up Pierre Mirel his doctor is very amusing and natural. The story of "The Speckled Band" is well known, concerning the activities of a rather insane Anglo-Indian surgeon, his mysterious housekeeper, and native servant, and the strange death of one of his step-daughters. The other girl begins to fear for her life, too, and enlists the help of Watson and Holmes, who solves the murder and plot in his usual brilliant and highly thrilling manner. The climax is most exciting and very dramatic. Val Gurney puts many good touches into his part, and plays well with Pierre Mirel as his faithful ally and assistant. J. Scott Leighton makes the difficult part of the murderous Dr Rylott convincing, and Florence Churchill is very good as the threatening housekeeper. Seymour Rose plays Ali, the native servant, with Alfred Stutton excellent in the part of the old and terrified butler. Lisette Demant gives some fine acting as the girl Enid, being very natural; and Myrtle Monte is very good as Mrs Armitage, the village grocer, one of the jury at the inquest. Betty Fowler plays very well as Holmes' page boy Billy. Her acting and her voice are improving with confidence and experience. The play is a light and very enjoyable thriller.
